Kansas is suffering from over-production, and a very grave case of it. There has been a tremendous overproduction of effice seekers this year. Almost every man who contibuted a speech or a five dollar bill for redeeming Kansas, now regards himself as a suitable object to be materially rewarded. Virtue is not its own reward in this case. Now, William Thompson thought if it were worth while to have a singing school at all it was well enough to have a teacher who was as up to date in his methods of instruction as he, knew just the man who, in his opinion, his plans, but he quietly explained them out in force and attend the meeting. It was never definitely discovered who told Deacon Tobias about it, but that somebody did inform him there was no question whatever in Mr. Thompson's mind when, accompanied by a large number of the younger and more progressive element, he entered the schoolhouse at 7:30. He had expected to see perhaps a dozen of the old standbys. He had 15 or 20 with him and knew he could depend on ten or a dozen more who would come later. But when he went in he Old Deacon Tobias, who, despite his saw that the schoolhouse was already more than half full, and that almost all of those present were of the older and less progressive element. It was clear,

Then there was a grand hustling. meeting was called to order. Deacon Tobias took the chair, as usual, and Mr. Jackson and Farmer Anderson made their motions. Mr. Jackson's was carried without dissent, but the moment Farmer Anderson sat down William Thompson was on his feet with an amendment in favor of Professor Lionel Daniels. Thompson had never had any legislative experience, but he knew from the count he had made of noses enough to delay the meeting until his lieutenants should come in with re-enforcements defeat was ahead of him. Therefore he began by explaining at great length that he felt no ill will toward Mr. Solomon Johnson, whose devotion to music and whose ability were of the three churches, and the result both unquestioned. But, he said, this would be that each of these good men was a progressive world, and there were would give out, after the sermon a few others perhaps who were more competent to instruct in modern vocal music

At this point he was interrupted by cries of "No, no!" and "Name the For many years these meetings had man!" and "Shame!" The entertainment with which the series concluded also was eminently successful and packed the Methodist church to the doors. When the receipts were counted, it was found that the surplus was ample to buy the desired street lamps and furnish them with oil for a year. Young William Thompson himself undertook to hire and pay a boy to light them, and very likely they are burning every night to the present time.
